CITY ITEMS.

You ought to see THE CRAWFORD STORE these days and their show windows. You may travel around this city of ours and find their equal. Note how their Wash Goods, Linens, Ribbons, Lace, and Ribbons are getting backed to pieces, and thrashed up hill and down dale. 'Tis the public that is doing it and all because the CRAWFORD store is half the price they are anywhere else!

BOY AGAIN ATTEMPTS TO HANG HIMSELF

James Hill, 14 Years Old, Makes Two Futile Efforts Within Two Weeks.

DREADS HOUSE OF REFUGE.

Is Sorry Guard Fred Huebler at City Hospital Cut Down the Rope by Which He Hung Suspended.

Filled with a great fear of the House of Refuge and willing to die rather than enter that institution, 14-year-old James Hill hung himself to the ceiling of his cell at the City Hospital early yesterday morning, and, but for the timely arrival of Fred Huebler, the guard, would have ended his

JAMES HILL.

Although but 14 years old, he has twice attempted suicide within the last two weeks.

On account of the crowded condition of the cells at the City Hospital two and three persons are confined in each. Early yesterday morning Hill carefully removed some bandages which were wrapped around a window of a fellow-prisoner and with these formed a noose, hung himself, and was hardly able to speak when cut down by Guard Huebler.

Climbing up the door of his cell he fastened the improvised rope to the bars forming the ceiling, and then, passing the noose over his head, he pulled it tight and jumped off the door. The noose did not cause strangulation immediately. Guard Huebler went to the cell at breakfast time and he asked: "Do you want a cup of milk now?" The boy did not answer and he was left hanging to the bars across the top of the cell. He unlocked the door, cut the improvised rope, and summoning one of the house-keepers, soon carried Hill to consciousness. About 10 o'clock he was taken before Mayor Wells and committed to the House of Refuge.

June 4 Hill was locked up at the Lafayette Park Police Station at the request of his mother, Mrs. Charles Wright, of 2421 La Salle street, who stated that her son was incorrigible and that she had committed to the House of Refuge. The arrest took place about 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

About three hours later Policeman Miller found the boy unconscious hanging to the bars in the corridor. He had formed a noose, and with his suspenders about his neck, attached to the cell bars, had kicked a bench from under his feet.

An ambulance was summoned and he was taken to the City Hospital and placed in the cells awaiting action by the Mayor. A day later he attempted to hang himself from the hospital by crawling through a skylight in the roof of the cell.

He was discovered by Guard William Kelly and locked up in his cell and a more careful watch kept on him.

At the Four Courts yesterday afternoon before being taken to the House of Refuge he seemed to greatly regret the failure of his attempt on his life. He made contradictory statements regarding the trouble he had with his mother and his friends, her to have him arrested. "I don't want to go to the House of Refuge," he said, "and I don't care what I do if I can escape from there."

The following note was found in his cell at the City Hospital: "Dear Mother—I am sorry that you sent me to this kind of a place. Goodbye, all. Prefer to die than go to House of Refuge."

SIXTY THOUSAND EXILES

MAY SOON RETURN HOME.

New Russian Minister Inclined to Revive Banishment Decried by His Predecessor.

St. Petersburg, June 16.—An enumeration of the persons, including working people, expelled from various cities during the last two and a half years of the administration of M. Sipiaguine, the Minister of the Interior, who was assassinated April 15, drawn up by the instructions of M. Von Plehwe, who succeeded M. Sipiaguine, shows the enormous total of 60,000.

M. Von Plehwe has decided to clean this state so far as possible and permit the expelled persons to return, as he does not desire to inherit the hatred inspired by M. Sipiaguine. Plehwe is inclined to adopt milder measures generally, but the reactionists, under the leadership of Count Sheremetiev, are still influential with the Czar.

FOUR BOYS USED A REVOLVER.

Tried to Compel Driver to Let Them Ride on Wagon.

Four boys, each about 14 years old, one of whom was armed with a 22-caliber revolver, attempted to force Thomas Fitzsimmons, a driver for the Merchants' Ice and Coal Company, to allow them to ride on his wagon.

Fitzsimmons was driving south on Jefferson avenue, near Rutgers street, yesterday morning, when the boys got on the back of the wagon. He ordered them off and one of the boys pointed a revolver at him. Fitzsimmons overpowered the boy and took him to the police station and turned it over to Policeman Hennessey of the Third District. The boys escaped.

G. W. LEWIS DIVES FROM EADS BRIDGE

Fred C. Suhr, Spectator From a Tugboat, Falls Overboard the Boat Ella St. Clair.

Charles W. Lewis, 21 years old, of No. 207 Olive street, dived from the middle span of the Eads Bridge into the Mississippi River yesterday morning. His young wife stood by him and bade him be game. A few moments before the professional swimmer made his perilous leap Fred C. Suhr of Sixth and Market streets, who was with a party of sportsmen on the tugboat Ella St. Clair, to witness the feat, fell overboard and with difficulty was rescued by Charles Fitzgerald, who was for a long time swimming instructor at the old Natatorium. In a cab the young diver, accompanied by his wife and a lady friend, was driven upon the bridge, alighting in the center to await a signal from the tugboat, which was to put out a life line to the swimmer. The wait was longer than seemed reasonable. He could not see the struggle between life and death that was taking place at that moment at the lower side.

Suhr was among the last to leap aboard the Ella St. Clair. As he sprang from the wharfbort a miscalculation of distance caused him to strike his head against the side of the tug and fall back stunned into the water. Instantly the cry of "man overboard" brought Charles Fitzgerald to the sunken Lewis in time to see his friend sink in the swift current. The greatest moment of danger came when the little tug would smash into the wharfbort and smother the drowning man.

Now to the other side, balance the boat, Fitzgerald called. Then he dived. For fully sixty seconds neither Suhr nor his rescuer appeared. Finally Fitzgerald came up with Suhr's neck wrapped in his left arm, the head being so raised as to prevent the waves from washing over the mouth and nostrils.

Captain Tom Parker, the pilot aboard, had shifted the tug so that it would not crush the man in the water. From the pilot-house he also directed the casting of lines which Fitzgerald caught. Without them it would have been exceedingly difficult to bring Suhr through the swift current to the boat. When he was resuscitated the signal was given to take the middle of the stream, and with the sound of eight bells Fitzgerald, who had not had time to strip before rescuing Suhr, discarded his wet clothing and shoes and prepared to go in for Lewis in case of an accident. He looked so though any moment the tug would smash into the wharfbort and smother the drowning man.

Now to the other side, balance the boat, Fitzgerald called. Then he dived. For fully sixty seconds neither Suhr nor his rescuer appeared. Finally Fitzgerald came up with Suhr's neck wrapped in his left arm, the head being so raised as to prevent the waves from washing over the mouth and nostrils.

Nellie Hopkins's Parents Found Her Yesterday in Hospital.

Nellie Hopkins, 27 years old, ran away from her home, at Granite City, three years ago, and until yesterday her parents knew nothing of her whereabouts. Policeman Forster of the First District found her on the bank of the River des Peres near the Meramec river. She was acting strangely and appeared to intend jumping into the river. He took her to the police station and later to the observation ward at the City Hospital.

Three years ago she had some difficulty with her parents and left home. They were then living at Granite City. She came to St. Louis and obtained employment. She did not notify her family of her whereabouts. A few months ago her mother and father moved to No. 714 South Broadway and later to the observation ward at the City Hospital.

Yesterday morning Policeman Forster of the First District found the young woman on the river bank. She was acting strangely and he took her to the station. She gave the name of Blanche Crawford, but later admitted that her real name was Nellie Hopkins. Her parents were sent for and she was taken home. She had been an inmate of the City Insane Asylum. They requested that she be placed in the City Hospital.

MANUFACTURERS TO MEET.

James Barker Will Lecture at Mercantile Club To-Night.

The St. Louis Manufacturers' Association will hold its regular monthly meeting to-night at the Mercantile Club and then adjourn for the summer. It is probable that between this time and next September the members will be brought together by excursions, picnics or some other form of outing, where business affairs may be discussed. James Barker, general manager of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Railway, will deliver the address. He will illustrate with a series of handsome stereoscopic views of the land of the Monks, Mr. Barker is expected not only to give an interesting sketch of the country, but to bring out points that will be profitable to business men.

and pursued John Shipley of No. 265 South King's highway, and Abner Hickman, a negro, who had carried a few blocks away and taken to the saloon, where Adon identified them as two men who had created a disturbance in his place. Because he ejected them, he said, they fired into the saloon. One of the shots passed through the coat sleeve of Jules Roger, who was at the bar.

When they were arrested Shipley had a revolver in his pocket.

Doctor Upshaw of No. 5015 Shaw avenue attended Policeman Beerman, pronouncing his injuries painful, though not serious.

WOMAN FELL OUT OF WINDOW.

Mrs. Friedman, 96 Years Old, Sustained Painful Injuries.

Mrs. Minnie Friedman, 96 years old, of No. 1112A South Thirteenth street, lost her balance while leaning out of a second-story window of her home at 2:30 o'clock yesterday morning, and fell to the brick sidewalk, twenty feet below.

Julius Friedman, her son, carried her inside the house and summoned Doctor W. D. Hinchey of No. 1202 Hickory street. The doctor found she had sustained a few rib fractures about the body and a sprain of the left ankle. If she had suffered any internal injuries, he said, he could not tell at that time.
